Garret—Modern Layering

My first favorite item is my Coach messenger bag. It's really well made, and looks great with everything I have. I use it for my laptop and other work materials.

My second favorite item is my DKNY t-shirt. It's extremely comfortable, so I tend to wear it a lot!

Levis jeans - $6.99 (Goodwill)

Boots - $19.99 (Goodwill)

Vintage grey-plaid Farah sport coat -$6.99 (Goodwill)

Tommy Hilfiger plaid shirt - $4.99 (Goodwill)

Gap black sweater - $4.99 (Goodwill)

Ascot - $1.49 (Goodwill)

Necklace - $1.99 (Goodwill)

To really show versatility in just a few pieces, I decided to illustrate the modern way for men to layer. In the first look, we have a casual classic feel, with jeans, cool army boots, a windowpane plaid shirt, v-neck sweater, vintage ascot, and plaid sport coat. Plaids are always a good choice when done in a small pattern in grey, tan, or other neutrals. With the ever popular "messenger bag" over his shoulder, Garret is ready for a meeting or anything else that comes up. His favorite item is from Coach and is totally practical for a guy on the go. Next, simply remove the ascot, messenger bag, jacket, and glasses, and we have a less trendy approach to this easy style.

Let's go clubbing, with Garret using his favorite item, a DKNY graphic tee, to complement the jacket, jeans and boots. A few pieces can create a wardrobe for a smart dressed man.
